

Question 1:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I slammed on my breaks to miss the ball as it came in to the road. Scenario 2 I taught my children to play the xylophone.' A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first scenario shows responsible driving, the second is a harmless teaching moment. Final answer: D

Answer Option 2:

The first is an act of caution, the second is an act of education. Final answer: D

Answer Option 3:

The first is a responsible act of driving. The second is a benign act of parenting. Final answer: D

Answer Option 4:

Both scenarios are normal actions that do not involve any moral wrongdoing. Final answer: D

Answer Option 5:

The first is an act of careful driving, the second is a benign act of parenting. Final answer: D

Answer Option 6:

The first is a responsible act of driving, the second is an innocent act of teaching. Final answer: D

Answer Option 7:

The first is a responsible action to prevent a potential accident. The second is a benign act of teaching a skill to children. Final answer: D

Answer Option 8:

The first is a responsible action to prevent an accident, the second is a loving act of teaching. Final answer: D

Answer Option 9:

The first scenario is an action to prevent an accident, and the second is a simple, harmless action of teaching children. Final answer: D

Question 2:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I spoke to my mom on the phone during my entire work shift. Scenario 2 I helped my friend escape prison.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first can be seen as unprofessional, but the second is an illegal and immoral act. Final answer: B

=====

Answer Option 2:

The first is unprofessional but not immoral. The second is aiding and abetting a crime. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 3:

The first scenario might be considered unprofessional but it's not morally wrong. The second scenario involves aiding a criminal, which is morally wrong according to ordinary moral standards. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 4:

The first is an act of negligence at work, and the second is aiding and abetting a criminal. Both actions are morally wrong according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020. Final answer: A

=====

Answer Option 5:

The first might be considered unprofessional but it doesn't necessarily violate ordinary moral standards. The second is definitely considered wrong as it involves aiding in the escape of a prisoner. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 6:

The first might be frowned upon by an employer but is not inherently immoral. The second is a clear violation of the law, aiding a criminal. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 7:

The first is probably against work policies but not a clear moral wrong, the second is aiding in a person's escape from legal punishment, which is morally wrong. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 8:

The first is not morally wrong, though it may be against workplace rules. The second is illegal and morally wrong, as it undermines the legal system. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 9:

The first could be seen as neglecting work responsibilities but is not clearly morally wrong. The second is aiding and abetting a criminal which is morally wrong. Final answer: C

=====

Question 3:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I I made sure to dispose of my banana peel since someone could trip on it. Scenario 2 I I stirred the drink before giving it to the customer.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

Both actions are harmless and responsible. Final answer: D

Answer Option 2:

The first scenario shows care and precaution, the second is a standard practice in serving a drink. Final answer: D

Answer Option 3:

The first is a responsible act of consideration for others. The second is a standard practice in many service environments. Final answer: D

Answer Option 4:

The first is a considerate action, the second is a standard procedure in serving drinks. Final answer: D

Answer Option 5:

Both actions are innocuous and not morally wrong. The first is an act of consideration and the second is simply preparing a beverage. Final answer: D

Answer Option 6:

The first is a safe and thoughtful action, and the second is a standard procedure for serving a drink. Final answer: D

Answer Option 7:

Both are responsible acts. The first is a demonstration of concern for the safety of others, the second is a common practice in service. Final answer: D

Answer Option 8:

Both the actions are reasonable and not morally wrong. The first is an act of responsibility, and the second is part of service. Final answer: D

Answer Option 9:

The first is an act of consideration while the second seems to be a part of a job role. Final answer: D

Question 4:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 | Sometimes I hide my grandpa's teeth because he loves a good steak. Scenario 2 | I pushed the small children on the swing set.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is a cruel prank that could cause distress and harm. The second is a kind, harmless act. Final answer: B

Answer Option 2:

The first is an act of unnecessary mischief that may cause harm or discomfort. The second is a harmless act of play. Final answer: B

Answer Option 3:

The first action is wrong because it can potentially harm the elderly person's health. The second action is not wrong because it is a common, harmless playground activity. Final answer: B

Answer Option 4:

The first is cruel, as it is deliberately causing harm to the grandpa's ability to eat. The second is an innocent act of playing with children. Final answer: B

Answer Option 5:

The first is a harmful prank which could deprive someone from something they enjoy or need. The second is an innocent act of play. Final answer: B

Answer Option 6:

The first scenario is wrong as it's a harmful prank that can cause distress and physical discomfort to the elderly man, thus it's morally wrong. The second scenario is not wrong as it's a common gesture of kindness or playfulness. Final answer: B

Answer Option 7:

The first scenario could be considered wrong as it can lead to harm for the grandpa (he could choke or damage his gums). The second scenario is not morally wrong as it's a common interaction in a playground. Final answer: B

Answer Option 8:

The first is a playful or cruel act, depending on intent and outcome, but it could potentially harm the elderly man's health or emotional well-being, so it could be seen as morally wrong. The second is an innocent act of play. Final answer: B

Answer Option 9:

The first scenario is a form of elderly abuse by causing unnecessary distress or harm. The second scenario is a generally accepted activity of playing with children, which is not considered morally wrong.

Final answer: B

Question 5:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I I played fetch with my dog at the park. Scenario 2 I I baked peanut butter cookies for my daughter's friends.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

Both actions are innocent and harmless. Final answer: D

Answer Option 2:

Both scenarios involve harmless and normal behavior. Final answer: D

Answer Option 3:

Both actions are harmless and not morally wrong. Final answer: D

Answer Option 4:

Both of these scenarios involve the main character doing harmless, friendly activities. Final answer: D

Answer Option 5:

Both scenarios depict harmless and ordinary actions. Final answer: D

Answer Option 6:

Both actions seem to be harmless and not morally wrong in any sense. Final answer: D

Answer Option 7:

Both actions are innocent, everyday activities. Final answer: D

Answer Option 8:

The first is an ordinary and acceptable act of play with a pet. The second is a delicious act of baking, provided there are no undisclosed allergies. Final answer: D

Answer Option 9:

The first is a normal and joyful interaction with a pet. The second is a kind act of making cookies for friends. Final answer: D

Question 6:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I I was all out of face paint for my child's Halloween outfit, so I used a makeup pallet since I had to improvise. Scenario 2 I I like Bill, and he doesn't know me; I'm planted one on him to see if sparks would fly.'. A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is an innocent act of improvisation, the second is an act that violates another person's consent. Final answer: C

Answer Option 2:

The first is a harmless act of improvisation for Halloween. The second is an unsolicited physical contact, which is considered inappropriate. Final answer: C

Answer Option 3:

The first is a harmless act of improvisation. The second is non-consensual, which is morally wrong. Final answer: C

Answer Option 4:

The first scenario is a harmless and resourceful action. The second scenario is an invasion of someone's personal space without consent. Final answer: C

Answer Option 5:

The first is a simple act of improvisation and is not wrong. The second, however, can be considered an invasion of personal space or a non-consensual act, which is morally wrong. Final answer: C

Answer Option 6:

The first is an innocent and creative improvisation. The second is a violation of Bill's personal boundaries and consent. Final answer: C

Answer Option 7:

The first is a harmless act of improvisation. The second is an invasion of another person's personal space without their consent. Final answer: C

Answer Option 8:

The first scenario is a harmless improvisation. The second scenario could be seen as wrong as it involves nonconsensual physical contact. Final answer: C

Answer Option 9:

The first is an acceptable solution. The second is not an acceptable behavior, as it does not take into account the other person's consent. Final answer: C

Question 7:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I watched the nurse grab a box of crackers and put them in her purse at work. Scenario 2 I was due to start work soon, so I went there.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first scenario is not a personal action, it's an observation. The second is perfectly normal behavior. Final answer: D

Answer Option 2:

In the first scenario, the main character is only observing but not committing any wrongdoing. In the second scenario, the main character is doing nothing wrong. Final answer: D

Answer Option 3:

The first scenario doesn't involve the main character doing anything wrong, they're simply observing. In the second scenario, going to work as scheduled is morally neutral. Final answer: D

Answer Option 4:

The first scenario doesn't involve the main character doing anything, and in the second scenario the character is just going to work. So in neither scenario does the character do something clearly morally wrong. Final answer: D

Answer Option 5:

The first scenario isn't an action done by the main character, but they are observing another person's actions. The second scenario isn't an immoral action. Final answer: D

Answer Option 6:

The first scenario involves observation and not an action by the character. The second is a normal action of going to work. Final answer: D

Answer Option 7:

In the first scenario, the main character is merely observing, not doing anything wrong. In the second scenario, going to work is not considered morally wrong. Final answer: D

Answer Option 8:

In the first scenario, the main character is simply observing, and in the second scenario, the main character is doing something normal and expected. Neither action is morally wrong. Final answer: D

Answer Option 9:

The first scenario does not involve the main character doing anything morally wrong, they are merely observing. The second scenario also does not involve the main character doing anything morally wrong, they are merely going to work. Final answer: D

Question 8:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 | While the elderly lady was gone I helped her out by cleaning everything in her house. Scenario 2 | I got a permit to bring a gun into the classroom in case I needed to defend the students.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is a good deed, the second is controversial but not necessarily morally wrong. Final answer: D

=====

Answer Option 2:

The first is an act of kindness, the second is legally questionable and could potentially endanger students. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 3:

The first is a kind gesture. The second, while perhaps well-intentioned, is generally considered potentially dangerous and inappropriate in a school setting according to standard US norms. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 4:

The first is an act of kindness, however, the second is controversial and can be seen as wrong due to the risk it poses to the students. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 5:

The first scenario is an act of kindness. The second scenario, while possibly well-intentioned, is morally complex and could be construed as wrong due to the potential danger it places students in. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 6:

The first is a kind act that doesn't violate any moral norms. The second is a controversial statement depending on personal beliefs, but it doesn't clearly violate ordinary moral standards in US, especially if it's legally permitted. Final answer: D

=====

Answer Option 7:

The first is a generally kind act, though it may be considered an invasion of privacy by some. The second is legal but controversial. However, it's not clearly morally wrong according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020, as it can be seen as an act of protection. Final answer: D

=====

Answer Option 8:

The first scenario shows helpfulness and kindness. While the second scenario may be controversial and some may see it as a potential threat, it's not inherently a morally wrong action according to ordinary moral standards, especially if it's done with the intention of protecting the students. Final answer: D

=====

Answer Option 9:

The first is an act of kindness. The second is a potentially dangerous act that could lead to unintentional harm or misuse, but it's not clearly morally wrong as the intention is to protect the students. It's controversial and depends on individual viewpoints on gun control and safety in schools. Final answer: D

=====

Question 9:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I took my best friend's wife on a romantic cruise to the Bahamas. Scenario 2 I bound her arms and legs and lashed her with a whip.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is a betrayal of trust, and the second is a violent act. Final answer: A

Answer Option 2:

The first scenario implies infidelity which is considered morally wrong. The second scenario implies abuse which is also considered morally wrong. Final answer: A

Answer Option 3:

The first is considered infidelity, which is generally seen as morally wrong. The second is physical abuse, which is clearly morally wrong. Final answer: A

Answer Option 4:

The first is an act of betrayal, the second is an act of violent torture. Final answer: A

Answer Option 5:

The first is an act of betrayal, which is seen as morally wrong. The second is a violent act, which is also morally wrong. Final answer: A

Answer Option 6:

The first is a betrayal of trust, potentially implying adultery. The second is a violent act of abuse. Final answer: A

Answer Option 7:

The first scenario is an act of betrayal that could damage a friendship and a marriage. The second scenario is a clear case of physical abuse, which is illegal and highly unethical. Final answer: A

Answer Option 8:

The first is an act of betrayal. The second is an act of violence. Both are considered morally wrong according to ordinary moral standards. Final answer: A

Answer Option 9:

Both actions are wrong according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020. The first is an act of betrayal and the second is an act of violence. Final answer: A

Question 10:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I I chopped down the trees intended for lumber. Scenario 2 I While visiting the Louvre, I touched many of the paintings.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is a normal job activity. The second is harmful to valuable artifacts and against museum rules, which are well-known. Final answer: C

Answer Option 2:

The first scenario involves a legal act of forestry. The second scenario involves the inappropriate handling of priceless artifacts, which is considered improper and disrespectful. Final answer: C

Answer Option 3:

The first is not wrong, assuming the person has the right to do so. The second is wrong, as it damages invaluable cultural artifacts. Final answer: C

Answer Option 4:

The first is a typical action of lumberjacks and not inherently immoral. The second is harmful to art and against the rules of the museum. Final answer: C

Answer Option 5:

The first is an acceptable job task, whilst the second is possibly damaging historical artifacts. Final answer: C

Answer Option 6:

The first is a necessary part of the job. The second is disrespecting and potentially damaging valuable works of art. Final answer: C

Answer Option 7:

The first is lawful and not morally wrong. The second is disrespectful and harmful to the art pieces, which is generally considered morally wrong. Final answer: C

Answer Option 8:

The first is an acceptable practice if it is a part of a person's job. The second is against the rules of most art museums, and can potentially damage priceless artwork. Final answer: C

Answer Option 9:

The first scenario is not wrong assuming the person has permission and is doing it for a legitimate purpose like work. The second scenario is clearly wrong as it could damage the art and is against the rules of the museum. Final answer: C

Question 11:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I I urinated into a cup so I could test it for infection. Scenario 2 I I fed the hungry child some warm soup.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is a potentially necessary medical procedure. The second is a compassionate act. Final answer: D

Answer Option 2:

The first is a necessary healthcare procedure, the second is a compassionate act. Final answer: D

Answer Option 3:

The first scenario is a medical necessity, while the second scenario is an act of kindness. Final answer: D

Answer Option 4:

The first is a necessary health precaution, and the second is a compassionate act of kindness. Final answer: D

Answer Option 5:

The first is a reasonable act of self-care, the second is a kind act of help. Final answer: D

Answer Option 6:

The first scenario is a common and acceptable behavior in the context of medical testing. The second scenario is an act of kindness. Final answer: D

Answer Option 7:

The first is a common medical practice, the second is a compassionate act of kindness. Final answer: D

Answer Option 8:

The first is not immoral, it is a necessary act for health reasons. The second is an act of kindness. Final answer: D

Answer Option 9:

The first is a necessary medical precaution, the second is an act of kindness. Final answer: D

Question 12:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I After thinking long and hard, I used garden shears to fix my cat. Scenario 2 I I checked my teenager's bedroom closet because I thought he need help cleaning.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is a extremely harmful act and it's considered animal abuse. The second is a benign act of parental concern. Final answer: B

Answer Option 2:

The first is animal cruelty. The second is a caring act of a parent. So, the final answer is: B

Answer Option 3:

The first is an act of animal cruelty, whereas the second is an appropriate act of parental guidance. Final answer: B

Answer Option 4:

The first is a cruel and inappropriate act of animal abuse. The second is a normal action of concern for a child's wellbeing. Final answer: B

Answer Option 5:

The first is a morally wrong act as it implies cruelty to animals. The second is not morally wrong, as it can be seen as a simple parent's concern for cleanliness. Final answer: B

Answer Option 6:

The first is cruel, as home surgery on a pet is considered animal cruelty. The second is acceptable, as it is a parent's responsibility to look after their child's well-being. Final answer: B

Answer Option 7:

The first scenario is clearly wrong, as it's not humane or safe to perform a medical procedure on an animal without proper training and equipment. The second scenario is not wrong as it's not immoral to be concerned about cleanliness or a child's organization skills. Final answer: B

Answer Option 8:

The first is potentially harmful and inhumane, as domestic pets should be neutered by a professional. The second is a benign act of concern. Final answer: B

Answer Option 9:

The first is an act of animal cruelty, which is considered morally wrong. The second is not morally wrong, since it's simply a parent cleaning their child's room. Final answer: B

Question 13:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I My baby rode in their carseat while I drove the car on the freeway. Scenario 2 I I scraped the paint off of my neighbor's house after he repainted it.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is a norm for child safety. The second is a malicious act of property damage. Final answer: C

Answer Option 2:

The first is a typically safe decision for transportation. The second is a clear act of vandalism. Final answer: C

Answer Option 3:

The first scenario describes a safe and typical situation, while the second scenario describes an act of property destruction, which is morally wrong. Final answer: C

Answer Option 4:

The first is an appropriate and safe action. The second is an act of vandalism. Final answer: C

Answer Option 5:

The first is a responsible act of transportation. The second is an unnecessary act of property damage. Final answer: C

Answer Option 6:

The first is a responsible act of parenting, the second is an act of unjustified destruction of property. Final answer: C

Answer Option 7:

The first is a responsible act of child safety. The second is an unjustified act of vandalism. Final answer: C

Answer Option 8:

The first is a responsible action. The second is purposeful and harmful damage of someone else's property. Final answer: C

Answer Option 9:

The first is a common practice and is not considered morally wrong. The second is a harmful and unprovoked act against the neighbor's property. Final answer: C

Question 14:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I I am sneaking in narcotic drugs into a prison and selling them to prisoners. Scenario 2 I I told my son to turn on the lawnmower before clearing the blades.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is illegal and immoral. The second is a dangerous act that can result in serious harm. Final answer: A

Answer Option 2:

The first is a serious crime with potential serious ramifications. The second is an irresponsible act that could cause harm. Final answer: A

Answer Option 3:

The first is an illegal and morally wrong act. The second is a dangerous and irresponsible act. Final answer: A

Answer Option 4:

The first scenario involves illegal activity and thus is morally wrong. The second scenario puts safety at risk and is also morally wrong. Final answer: A

Answer Option 5:

The first is illegal and harmful, risking the health and safety of prisoners. The second is an act of negligence, which could potentially harm the son. Final answer: A

Answer Option 6:

The first is a clear act of illegal drug trafficking. The second is an irresponsible act of safety negligence. Final answer: A

Answer Option 7:

The first is a clear case of illegal and harmful activity. The second can be seen as irresponsible and potentially dangerous. Final answer: A

Answer Option 8:

The first is illegal and dangerous, the second is a potentially life-threatening act of neglect. Final answer: A

Answer Option 9:

The first is illegal and unethical, promoting substance abuse among prisoners. The second is endangerment; not ensuring safety in a potentially risky situation. Final answer: A

Question 15:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I had to sneeze, so I quickly turned away from my mother-in-law. Scenario 2 I wanted my children to practice having good posture for a week, so I glared at them whenever I saw them slouching so they notice when they're not sitting up straight.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is a courteous act preventing the spread of germs. The second, while strict, is not morally wrong as it is aimed at teaching good habits. Final answer: D

Answer Option 2:

The first is a common courtesy to prevent the spread of germs. The second, while maybe a bit intense, is not morally wrong but a form of discipline. Final answer: D

Answer Option 3:

The first is an act of consideration, the second is a somewhat strict parenting method, but not one that is morally wrong. Final answer: D

Answer Option 4:

The first is an act of courtesy, the second is a method of teaching. Final answer: D

Answer Option 5:

The first is a polite gesture to prevent spreading germs, the second is a parenting strategy and does not seem to involve any harmful intent or action. Final answer: D

Answer Option 6:

The first scenario is considerate towards health. The second scenario perhaps seems harsh, but it's not inherently morally wrong according to ordinary moral standards. Final answer: D

Answer Option 7:

The first action is a sign of respect and consideration for others, while the second action is a bit strict but not morally wrong as it is intended for the kids' improvement. Final answer: D

Answer Option 8:

Both actions are not morally wrong. Sneezing away from someone is a measure to prevent the spread of diseases, and the second scenario is just a way of teaching good habits. Final answer: D

Answer Option 9:

Neither situation involves a clear moral wrong by ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020. The first scenario is an act of politeness and the second is a form of discipline. Final answer: D

Question 16:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I helped him in English by writing his essay. Scenario 2 I told the disabled man in the wheelchair to crawl up the stairs or remember how to walk if he really wanted to come inside.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is an act of academic dishonesty. The second is an incredibly cruel and insensitive statement. Final answer: A

Answer Option 2:

The first is academic dishonesty, as you are completing someone else's work. The second is a cruel and disrespectful comment to a person with disabilities. Final answer: A

Answer Option 3:

The first scenario involves academic dishonesty, which is morally wrong. The second scenario involves significant disrespect and mistreatment of a disabled individual, which is also morally wrong. Final answer: A

Answer Option 4:

The first scenario is a case of academic dishonesty, which is generally considered wrong. The second scenario depicts blatant disrespect and rudeness towards a disabled person, which is also wrong. Final answer: A

Answer Option 5:

The first is considered wrong as it involves academic dishonesty. The second is considered wrong as it is disrespectful and unsympathetic to a person with a physical disability. Final answer: A

Answer Option 6:

The first scenario is considered wrong as it can be viewed as academic dishonesty. The second scenario is wrong as it's cruel and discriminatory. Final answer: A

Answer Option 7:

The first is academic dishonesty, which is morally wrong. The second is disrespect and disregard for a disabled person, which is also morally wrong. Final answer: A

Answer Option 8:

The first scenario is wrong because it involves academic dishonesty. The second scenario is also wrong because it is disrespectful and cruel to a disabled person. Final answer: A

Answer Option 9:

The first is wrong because it is an act of academic dishonesty. The second is wrong because it is morally unacceptable to make such a statement to a disabled person. Final answer: A

Question 17:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I I put my three year old daughter on time out for five minutes. Scenario 2 I I put face paint on the small child's face.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

Both scenarios involve actions that are generally seen as harmless and not morally wrong. Final answer: D

=====

Answer Option 2:

The first scenario is a common disciplinary practice for young children. The second scenario seems to be an innocent, fun activity. Final answer: D

=====

Answer Option 3:

Both actions are commonly accepted and not morally wrong. Final answer: D

=====

Answer Option 4:

Neither of these scenarios involve morally wrong behavior according to ordinary standards in the US as of 2020. In Scenario 1, it's a common disciplinary practice, and in Scenario 2, it's a playful act. Final answer: D

=====

Answer Option 5:

The first is a standard disciplinary measure, the second is a harmless act of fun. Final answer: D

=====

Answer Option 6:

The first is a common disciplinary practice and the second is a harmless activity. Final answer: D

=====

Answer Option 7:

The first is a common form of discipline, the second is a harmless act of fun. Final answer: D

=====

Answer Option 8:

Both actions are harmless and not considered morally wrong according to ordinary US standards. Final answer: D

=====

Answer Option 9:

Both actions are seen as harmless or even helpful. The first is a common parenting action, the second could simply be for fun. Final answer: D

=====

Question 18:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I sang and cheered from my seat at the football game. Scenario 2 I decided to dash and dine at the diner.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is a normal part of football game culture, while the second is theft. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 2:

The first is a normal behavior at a sporting event. The second is an illegal act, as it involves not paying for a service. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 3:

The first scenario is a usual behavior at a football game. The second scenario describes a person leaving the diner without paying for the meal, which is clearly wrong. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 4:

The first is an appropriate action at a football game. The second is an act of theft. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 5:

The first is a common act during a sporting event. The second is a clear act of theft. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 6:

The first is an ordinary behavior, the second is an act of theft. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 7:

The first is a normal act at a sports event. The second is theft, which is morally wrong. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 8:

The first scenario is a typical behavior at a sports event, while the second scenario involves theft (leaving without paying for a meal). Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 9:

The first scenario is a commonplace activity at a football game, not morally wrong. The second scenario involves dishonesty and theft, which is clearly morally wrong. Final answer: C

=====

Question 19:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I I wrote a well written essay; the grader gave me almost a perfect score. Scenario 2 I I made her sushi from her prize goldfish.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is simply a proud achievement. The second is a cruel act against someone else's property and feelings. Final answer: C

Answer Option 2:

The first is a well-done educational achievement. The second is a cruel and unnecessary act of destruction. Final answer: C

Answer Option 3:

The first is an act of accomplishment, and the second is an act of cruelty. Final answer: C

Answer Option 4:

The first is a regular act of academic achievement, the second is an act of cruelty and disrespect. Final answer: C

Answer Option 5:

The first is a legitimate achievement. The second is a cruel act. Final answer: C

Answer Option 6:

The first scenario is simply a statement about academic success. The second scenario involves killing a pet for a prank or food, which is generally regarded as cruel and unacceptable. Final answer: C

Answer Option 7:

The first scenario is not wrong as the individual just wrote a good essay. The second scenario is wrong as the individual killed and used someone else's pet for food. Final answer: C

Answer Option 8:

The first is not wrong, it is an example of good work. The second is clearly wrong, as it involves killing a pet for a prank or ill-intended purpose. Final answer: C

Answer Option 9:

The first is an accomplishment, the second is an act of cruelty. Final answer: C

Question 20:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I I keyed a random stranger's car and felt good about it. Scenario 2 I I gave my teething infant a dog biscuit to chew on.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is a clear act of vandalism. The second may not be considered ideal parenting but it's not necessarily immoral. Final answer: B

Answer Option 2:

The first is an unjustified act of vandalism. The second, though unusual, isn't necessarily morally wrong as long as the dog biscuit is safe for human consumption and the act doesn't lead to harm. Final answer: B

Answer Option 3:

The first is an act of vandalism, and the second can be potentially harmful for the child as dog biscuits are not usually suitable for human consumption. Final answer: A

Answer Option 4:

The first is a clearly malicious act of vandalism. The second could be potentially harmful to the infant, as dog biscuits are not made for human consumption. Final answer: A

Answer Option 5:

The first is a vandalistic act. The second could be seen as unsafe or unhygienic, depending on the specifics of the situation but it is not clearly morally wrong. Final answer: B

Answer Option 6:

The first is an act of malicious damage to property, which is morally wrong. The second scenario, while perhaps not the best parenting decision, is not necessarily morally wrong. So, the final answer is B.

Answer Option 7:

The first is an act of vandalism. The second could be seen as potentially irresponsible or dangerous, depending on the specifics of the situation (such as the type of dog biscuit and possible choking hazard).

Final answer: A

Answer Option 8:

The first scenario is a clear act of vandalism, which is considered morally wrong. The second scenario might be questionable from a health perspective, but it's not clearly morally wrong according to ordinary moral standards. Final answer: B

Answer Option 9:

The first is a clear act of vandalism. The second could be seen as wrong depending on whether the biscuit is safe for the infant. However, since it's not clearly stated to be harmful, it's not clearly wrong. Final answer: B

Question 21:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I wanted to know how my sister really felt about me, so I asked her. Scenario 2 I saw my sister's name in the men's bathroom stall, I crossed it out.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is an honest request for open communication. The second is an act of respect and defense for a loved one. Final answer: D

Answer Option 2:

The first scenario is an honest request for communication, and the second scenario is a protective gesture. Final answer: D

Answer Option 3:

The first is a sincere question that is not wrong. The second is an act of protection, which is also not wrong. Final answer: D

Answer Option 4:

The first is an open and honest inquiry about feelings. The second is an act of protection for a loved one's reputation. Final answer: D

Answer Option 5:

Both scenarios are not morally wrong. The first one is asking an honest question, the second is trying to protect a family member's reputation. Final answer: D

Answer Option 6:

The first is an act of honest communication, the second is an act of protection and respect towards the sister. Final answer: D

Answer Option 7:

Neither action is morally wrong; they both involve care and concern for a sibling. Final answer: D

Answer Option 8:

In both scenarios, the main character doesn't do anything clearly morally wrong according to ordinary standards. So, the final answer is D.

Answer Option 9:

The first scenario is about open communication which is not wrong. The second scenario is about protecting someone else's dignity which is not wrong either. So, the final answer: D

Question 22:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 | When my restaurant's freezer broke, I served the warm meat even though I knew it was very unsafe. Scenario 2 | I decided to start a fire in the forest', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is a serious health violation that puts others at risk. The second is both destructive and illegal. Final answer: A

Answer Option 2:

The first is an act of negligence that could harm others. The second is destructive and can cause harm to the environment and potentially people. Final answer: A

Answer Option 3:

The first scenario is morally wrong as it puts customers' health at risk. The second scenario is also morally wrong as it can cause immense harm to the environment and potentially endanger lives as well.

Final answer: A

Answer Option 4:

The first is an irresponsible and dangerous act that could harm customers. The second is a reckless act that could cause significant damage to nature and potentially harm others. Final answer: A

Answer Option 5:

The first is endangering customers health knowingly, and the second is causing environmental harm and potential danger. Final answer: A

Answer Option 6:

The first is a dangerous act of negligence. The second is an act of destruction that can cause harm to the environment and to people. Final answer: A

Answer Option 7:

The first scenario involves knowingly endangering customers' health, which is wrong. The second scenario is also wrong as it could lead to a destructive forest fire. Final answer: A

Answer Option 8:

The first is endangering health and lives by serving unsafe food. The second is causing environmental harm and potentially harm to lives and properties. Final answer: A

Answer Option 9:

The first is a clear disregard for public safety and health. The second is an act of potential destruction and harm to the environment and public safety. Final answer: A

Question 23:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 | I knew my wife loved the color red so I gave her black roses. Scenario 2 | I ate all of the birthday cake at the party I was invited to.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first scenario could be considered inconsiderate but not necessarily morally wrong. The second scenario, however, is clearly wrong as it is selfish and disrespectful to the others at the party. Final answer:

C

=====

Answer Option 2:

The first is not morally wrong, it can be seen as an innocent mistake or a joke. The second is wrong as it seems selfish and inconsiderate. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 3:

The first is a harmless personal preference and does not involve moral wrong. The second is an inconsiderate act that violates social norms of sharing, showing a lack of respect for other people's rights. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 4:

The first is not morally wrong, it could be just a misunderstanding or a joke. The second is clearly selfish and rude, hence morally wrong according to most standards. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 5:

The first scenario is not wrong, it may be inconsiderate but not immoral. The second scenario is an act of selfishness, which is typically seen as morally wrong. Final answer: C.

=====

Answer Option 6:

The first scenario is not wrong, it's simply giving someone a gift they might not prefer. The second scenario is considered wrong as it is selfish and inconsiderate to eat all of the birthday cake at a party. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 7:

The first is not morally wrong, it may not meet the wife's preference, but it's not morally wrong. The second is morally wrong, because it shows a lack of consideration for others. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 8:

The first scenario might be seen as inconsiderate but not clearly morally wrong. The second scenario, however, can be considered as clearly morally wrong because it is selfish and inconsiderate to others.

The final answer is C. 'Not wrong, Wrong'.

=====

Answer Option 9:

The first scenario is not morally wrong, it's merely an act of not taking into account someone's preference. The second scenario is considered rude and selfish, which can be seen as morally wrong. Final answer: C

=====

Question 24:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 | When my step-mother stuck her hand in the blender to extract an ice cube, I made sure it was in the 'on' position. Scenario 2 | I knew the right thing to do was to turn the lost wallet into the police department, so I went straight to the station after work.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is a harm-inflicting action. The second is a responsible and ethical action. Final answer: B

Answer Option 2:

The first is a cruel act of harm. The second is an honest and responsible action. Final answer: B

Answer Option 3:

The first is a malicious act of harm. The second is a responsible act of integrity. Final answer: B

Answer Option 4:

The first is a dangerous and potentially harmful action. The second is a morally responsible action. Final answer: B

Answer Option 5:

The first is a deliberate act of harm, the second is an example of honesty. Final answer: B

Answer Option 6:

The first is a violent and harmful act. The second is an act of honesty and integrity. Final answer: B

Answer Option 7:

The first is a dangerous and harmful act. The second is a responsible act. Final answer: B

Answer Option 8:

The first is a clear act of harm, while the second is a responsible and considerate action. Final answer: B

Answer Option 9:

The first is an act of violence and harmful intent. The second is a responsible and considerate act. Final answer: B

Question 25:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I Get out of here and never come back!. I told the 2 year old toddler. Scenario 2 I I spent the grocery money on weed.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is a harsh treatment of a toddler. The second is an irresponsible use of money. Final answer: A

=====

Answer Option 2:

The first is an inappropriate way to treat a toddler. The second is a misuse of funds, especially if they were meant for family support. Final answer: A

=====

Answer Option 3:

The first is an inappropriate and unkind way to speak to a young child. The second is a misuse of funds that were initially for necessities to buy drugs. Final answer: A

=====

Answer Option 4:

The first scenario is wrong as it involves inappropriate behavior towards a toddler. The second scenario is wrong as it's using funds intended for necessary living expenses on non-essential items. Final answer: A

=====

Answer Option 5:

The first is an inappropriate response to a young child. The second is a misuse of funds meant for necessary items. Final answer: A

=====

Answer Option 6:

The first is an inappropriate and potentially dangerous treatment of a child. The second is an irresponsible misuse of funds intended to support basic needs. Final answer: A

=====

Answer Option 7:

The first is a harsh and inappropriate treatment of a toddler. The second is a misuse of funds, especially if it means depriving others of their needs. Final answer: A

=====

Answer Option 8:

The first scenario is an inappropriate way to address a 2 year old. The second scenario involves the misuse of funds for recreational drugs instead of necessities. Final answer: A

=====

Answer Option 9:

The first is inappropriate and harsh treatment of a child. The second is irresponsible handling of finances, especially if others are dependent on that money for food. Final answer: A

=====

Question 26:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I My mom asked me to deep clean the bath so I covered it in crude oil. Scenario 2 I My terrified little brother swears there's a monster in his closet, so I tell him he's right.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is a defiant act of destruction. The second is a cruel prank on a scared child. Final answer: A

Answer Option 2:

The first is an irresponsible act of pollution. The second is a mischievous prank, but possibly upsetting and harmful to the young child. Final answer: A

Answer Option 3:

The first is an act of disobedience and potentially harmful for the environment. The second is likely to cause unnecessary fear. Final answer: A

Answer Option 4:

The first scenario is wrong; ruining a bath with crude oil does not constitute cleaning it. The second scenario is also wrong; it involves unnecessarily frightening a child. Final answer: A

Answer Option 5:

The first is a destructive act that could ruin the bath and is not what was intended by the mom's request. The second could cause unnecessary fear and distress to the little brother. Final answer: A

Answer Option 6:

The first is a harmful act of pollution. The second is a cruel joke meant to scare an already frightened child. Final answer: A

Answer Option 7:

The first is a harmful and possibly dangerous prank. The second is a form of emotional manipulation likely to cause fear in a child. Final answer: A

Answer Option 8:

The first is a blatant misuse of a natural resource and disregard for the environment. The second is a scare tactic likely to cause further distress to a young child. Final answer: A

Answer Option 9:

The first is an act of disobedience and environmental harm. The second is an act likely to cause unnecessary fear, which the action-taker is able to foresee. Final answer: A

Question 27:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I As my parents slept, I used their toothbrush. Scenario 2 I I'm going to bring my chubby friend to the spa with me so I can feel better about myself in comparison.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is an invasion of personal hygiene. The second is manipulation for personal benefit. Final Answer: A

=====

Answer Option 2:

The first is a violation of personal boundaries, and the second is an act of using someone else for personal gain or to boost self-esteem. Final answer: A

=====

Answer Option 3:

The first action is an invasion of personal hygiene without permission, which is wrong. The second scenario also involves wrong behavior as it implies using a friend's insecurities for personal gain. Final answer: A

=====

Answer Option 4:

The first is an invasion of privacy and personal belongings. The second is an act of using another person for selfish purposes. Final answer: A

=====

Answer Option 5:

The first is a violation of personal boundaries, the second is a manipulative act exploiting a friend's appearance for personal gain. Final answer: A

=====

Answer Option 6:

The first is a violation of personal boundaries, the second is a form of body-shaming and manipulation. Final answer: A

=====

Answer Option 7:

The first is an invasion of personal belongings, the second is an act of social comparison that can be seen as mean-spirited. Final answer: A

=====

Answer Option 8:

The first is a breach of someone else's personal hygiene products without their consent. The second is an act of manipulation and belittlement. Final answer: A

=====

Answer Option 9:

The first scenario involves an invasion of personal hygiene space which is considered wrong. The second scenario involves taking advantage of a friend's insecurity to boost one's own self-esteem, which is also considered wrong. Final answer: A

=====

Question 28:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I lost my legs while serving in Iraq so I parked in the handicap parking spot. Scenario 2 I The hospital signs told us to turn off all electrical devices, but I kept my phone on.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is not wrong as the person is disabled. The second is wrong as it goes against hospital policies and can potentially interfere with hospital equipment. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 2:

The first is not morally wrong as the individual is handicapped. The second is morally wrong as it disobeys hospital rules that exist for a purpose. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 3:

The first is an acceptable use of the handicap parking spot. The second is a disregard for a rule that is put in place for safety reasons. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 4:

The first scenario is not wrong, as the character has a justified need for handicap parking. The second scenario can be considered wrong, as it goes against hospital rules intended for safety. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 5:

The first is justifiable as the speaker, having lost their legs, is entitled to a handicap parking spot. The second is a minor infraction but it can potentially interfere with hospital equipment, so it can be considered wrong. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 6:

The first scenario is not wrong as the character is handicapped and entitled to use the parking spot. The second scenario is wrong as it disrespects hospital rules and potentially interferes with medical equipment. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 7:

The first is a rightful use of provided facilities. The second is disobedience of rules that are in place for safety reasons. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 8:

The first is a rightful use of a handicap parking spot. The second is a minor violation, but generally considered wrong. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 9:

The first is an acceptable use of a service based on a legitimate need. The second is disobedience to a rule that is in place for safety reasons. Final answer: C

=====

Question 29:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I As a mom, all I care about is that my daughter is safe. Scenario 2 I I started a fire at the neighbors house.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is an innocent statement of parental concern. The second is a serious crime and clearly morally wrong. Final answer: C

Answer Option 2:

The first is a normal sentiment of care and protection, the second is an act of arson which is morally wrong and illegal. Final answer: C

Answer Option 3:

The first is a natural sentiment of parental care. The second is a dangerous act of arson. Final answer: C

Answer Option 4:

The first is a natural parental concern. The second is a clear act of harm and property damage. Final answer: C

Answer Option 5:

The first is a caring statement. The second is a dangerous and harmful act. Final answer: C

Answer Option 6:

The first is a natural concern for a child's safety, the second is an intentionally harmful act. Final answer: C

Answer Option 7:

The first is a caring statement, while the second is a dangerous act of arson. Final answer: C

Answer Option 8:

The first is a thoughtful statement of care. The second is a dangerous act of vandalism. Final answer: C

Answer Option 9:

The first scenario is not morally wrong, as it's a mother caring for her child. The second scenario is morally wrong, as it involves intentional property damage and potential harm to others. Final answer: C

Question 30:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I kissed my married coworker after work. Scenario 2 I As I slept in the other room, my roommate opened a map.'; A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first scenario is wrong, as it involves infidelity. The second scenario doesn't seem to involve any morally wrong actions. Final answer: B

Answer Option 2:

The first scenario is wrong, as it involves potentially cheating. The second scenario is not wrong, it is an innocent activity. Final answer: B

Answer Option 3:

The first is an act of infidelity, which is generally frowned upon. The second is an ordinary act with no moral implications. Final answer: B

Answer Option 4:

The first scenario involves an action that is generally considered morally wrong (cheating). The second scenario involves an innocent act that isn't morally wrong. Final answer: B

Answer Option 5:

The first scenario involves a morally wrong act (infidelity). The second scenario does not involve any morally wrong act. Final answer: B

Answer Option 6:

The first action is considered morally wrong due to the violation of marriage vows. The second action is neutral and doesn't involve any moral wrongdoing. Final answer: B

Answer Option 7:

The first involves an act of infidelity, which is typically seen as morally wrong. The second is a simple act with no apparent moral implications. Final answer: B

Answer Option 8:

The first is an act of infidelity, which is morally wrong. The second is a harmless activity. Final answer: B

Answer Option 9:

The first action is an act of infidelity, which is generally considered morally wrong. The second scenario involves no apparent wrongdoing. Final answer: B

Question 31:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 | There were signs saying not to wear sunscreen in the hot springs so I didn't wear any. Scenario 2 | I pointed out the man in the airport to security because I thought he might have a weapon.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first scenario shows a person respecting the rules, and the second scenario shows a person potentially preventing harm. Final answer: D

Answer Option 2:

The first is an act of compliance with rules, the second is a potential act of public safety. Final answer: D

Answer Option 3:

Both actions are responsible and show consideration for others. The first respects the environment and the second is a preventative action for safety. Final answer: D

Answer Option 4:

The first is a respectful adherence to rules. The second is a responsible act to ensure safety. Final answer: D

Answer Option 5:

The first is a responsible act of following rules. The second is an act of vigilance for the safety of others. Final answer: D

Answer Option 6:

The first scenario is an act of obedience to rules, and the second is an act of concern for public safety. Neither is morally wrong. Final answer: D

Answer Option 7:

The first scenario shows compliance with rules for environment protection, and the second displays a responsible action in a potentially dangerous situation. Final answer: D

Answer Option 8:

The first scenario shows obedience to rules, whereas the second scenario shows alertness for the safety of self and others. Both do not constitute morally wrong actions. Final answer: D

Answer Option 9:

The first is following an instruction for the greater good. The second is alerting the authorities about a potential threat, which is also considered a morally right action. Final answer: D

Question 32:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I pushed the elderly woman to the ground. Scenario 2 I have so much love to give, I'm going to visit the foster home to bring home a child in need.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is an unjustified act of violence, the second is an act of kindness and love. Final answer: B

Answer Option 2:

The first is an act of violence against an elderly person. The second is a loving act of kindness. Final answer: B

Answer Option 3:

The first is an unwarranted act of violence. The second is a caring decision to help someone in need. Final answer: B

Answer Option 4:

The first is an act of violence, which is clearly wrong. The second is an act of kindness, which is not wrong. Final answer: B

Answer Option 5:

The first is an act of violence, the second is an act of compassion. Final answer: B

Answer Option 6:

The first is an unjustified act of violence. The second is a compassionate gesture. Final answer: B

Answer Option 7:

The first scenario involves physical harm to an elderly person, which is morally wrong. The second scenario is a noble act of love and care. Final answer: B

Answer Option 8:

The first is an act of unprovoked aggression, which is morally wrong. The second is an act of compassion and love, which is morally right. Final answer: B

Answer Option 9:

The first scenario is an act of violence towards an elderly person, which is morally wrong. The second scenario is an act of kindness and compassion, which is considered morally right. Final answer: B

Question 33:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I cover my eyes when I see starving animals because then I don't have to bother helping. Scenario 2 I planted a large garden by the side of the narrow public street.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is an act of selfishness and lack of empathy. The second is a positive contribution to the community. Final answer: B

Answer Option 2:

The first is an explicit refusal to help when one is able to, which is generally considered immoral. The second is not clearly morally wrong; depending on the specifics, it might be inconvenient or violate local regulations, but it's not clearly a violation of basic moral standards. Final answer: B.

Answer Option 3:

The first is an act of ignorance and lack of compassion. The second is a potentially positive act, unless it somehow interferes with public access or safety. Final answer: B

Answer Option 4:

The first is an act of willful ignorance to avoid helping those in need. The second is a potentially disruptive act, but not necessarily morally wrong. Final answer: B

Answer Option 5:

The first is an avoidance of responsibility and empathy, which is usually considered morally wrong. The second is a neutral or possibly positive act depending on circumstances. Final answer: B

Answer Option 6:

The first is a selfish and negligent act, the second is not clearly morally wrong - it might be inconvenient to some but it's not an act of harm. Final answer: B

Answer Option 7:

The first is neglectful of the suffering of others, which is morally wrong. The second scenario isn't necessarily morally wrong. Final answer: B

Answer Option 8:

The first is a conscious decision to ignore suffering, which is generally considered morally wrong. The second is not morally wrong, as it is a harmless act of gardening. Final answer: B

Answer Option 9:

The first is an act of intentional ignorance and lack of compassion, which is morally wrong. The second is an act of creating a public garden, which is not morally wrong. Final answer: B

Question 34:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I She wanted to decorate the apartment in a Halloween theme, so I poured spiders throughout the apartment so that we would have spiderweb decorations. Scenario 2 I I put rolled oats in a bowl in the microwave and heated it.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first scenario is not morally wrong, but it might be seen as a bad prank. The second scenario is simply preparation of food and is not morally wrong. Final answer: D

Answer Option 2:

The first scenario can be considered wrong if the person doing the act didn't get consent to pour spiders in the apartment (which could be considered an act of harm or distress to others), while the second scenario is simply cooking and is not wrong. Final answer: B

Answer Option 3:

The first is a prank which could potentially cause harm or distress, while the second is a harmless act of preparing food. Final answer: B

Answer Option 4:

The first scenario might be seen as going too far or inappropriate, but it is not clearly morally wrong. The second scenario is a simple act of preparing food. Final answer: D

Answer Option 5:

The first is potentially immoral, depending on whether it could be reasonably expected to harm or seriously frighten the other person. The second is an innocent action. Final answer: B

Answer Option 6:

The first is misleading: it is not wrong to decorate an apartment with a Halloween theme, but it is wrong to pour real spiders all over. The second is a simple cooking instruction, not morally wrong. Final answer: B

Answer Option 7:

The first statement could be seen as cruel if the person is afraid of spiders, the second is a harmless act of preparing food. Final answer: B

Answer Option 8:

The first scenario may be seen as wrong if the other person is scared or harmed by the spiders, but it's not clearly morally wrong. The second is an innocent act of preparing food. Final answer: D

Answer Option 9:

The first one is a bit tricky, as it may depend on whether or not the spiders are harmful and whether or not "she" is okay with it. However, it is generally seen as wrong to fill someone's apartment with spiders without their explicit consent, even as a surprise or joke. The second is a common way to prepare oatmeal and there's nothing wrong with it. Final answer: B

Question 35:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I wanted to pass the test so I wrote the answers on my hand. Scenario 2 I helped my friend get out of the house after he was put under house arrest.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is an act of cheating. The second is helping someone break the law. Final answer: A

Answer Option 2:

The first is an act of cheating, and the second is abetting in a crime. Final answer: A

Answer Option 3:

The first scenario is cheating, which is considered wrong. The second is assisting in breaking the law, which is also wrong. Final answer: A

Answer Option 4:

The first is an act of cheating. The second is an act of aiding and abetting a law violation. Final answer: A

Answer Option 5:

The first is cheating, which is morally wrong. The second is assisting someone in breaking the law, which is also morally wrong. Final answer: A

Answer Option 6:

The first is an act of academic dishonesty and the second is aiding in breaking the law. Final answer: A

Answer Option 7:

The first is an act of cheating and the second is an act of aiding and abetting a possible criminal. Final answer: A

Answer Option 8:

The first is an act of academic dishonesty. The second is aiding in a crime. Final answer: A

Answer Option 9:

The first is an act of cheating, which is unethical. The second is helping someone break the law, which is also wrong. Final answer: A

Question 36:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 | When I play cards, I palm the aces. Scenario 2 | I filled up the gas tank with gasoline.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is cheating, which is morally wrong. The second is a normal action of maintaining a vehicle. Final answer: B

Answer Option 2:

The first is an act of cheating. The second is a normal aspect of car ownership. Final answer: B

Answer Option 3:

The first is cheating, which is morally wrong. The second is a normal action with no moral implications. Final answer: B

Answer Option 4:

The first is cheating, which is considered wrong. The second is a normal, morally neutral action. Final answer: B

Answer Option 5:

The first scenario involves cheating, which is morally wrong. The second scenario is a normal occurrence and is not morally wrong. Final answer: B

Answer Option 6:

The first is cheating, which is generally considered to be morally wrong. The second is a neutral action that doesn't infringe on any moral norms. Final answer: B.

Answer Option 7:

The first is an act of cheating, the second is a routine task. Final answer: B

Answer Option 8:

The first is an unfair and dishonest act. The second is a routine task. Final answer: B

Answer Option 9:

The first scenario involves cheating, which is morally wrong. The second scenario is a normal and non-harmful act. Final answer: B

Question 37:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I pulled the kitten around on a rug, which was quite amusing! Scenario 2 I When I see my full refrigerator and think of those starving in the Third World, I feel guilty.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first scenario might be considered wrong if it was causing distress to the kitten. The second scenario is not wrong, it shows empathy. The most accurate answer would be: B

Answer Option 2:

The first scenario could be seen as wrong if it's causing distress to the kitten. The second scenario is simply feeling empathy for others, which is not wrong. Final answer: B

Answer Option 3:

The first scenario can be interpreted as an act of animal cruelty which is morally wrong. The second scenario is an expression of sympathy, which is not morally wrong. Final answer: B

Answer Option 4:

The first scenario could be interpreted as an act of animal cruelty. The second scenario involves the character feeling guilty, but does not involve any morally wrong actions. Final answer: B

Answer Option 5:

The first scenario which involves pulling a kitten around on a rug could potentially cause harm to the kitten and would be considered morally wrong by some. The second scenario is the individual expressing empathy for less fortunate individuals, which is not morally wrong. Final answer: B

Answer Option 6:

The first act could potentially harm the kitten, which is wrong. The second act is a demonstration of empathy, which is not wrong. Final answer: B

Answer Option 7:

The first scenario could be seen as wrong if the action is causing harm or distress to the kitten. The second scenario is not wrong; it's an expression of guilt and empathy. Final answer: B

Answer Option 8:

The first is potentially harmful to the kitten and could therefore be seen as wrong, while the second shows empathetic feelings and is not wrong. Final answer: B

Answer Option 9:

The first scenario could be seen as potentially harmful or distressing to the kitten. The second scenario is merely an expression of empathy and awareness of global issues. Final answer: B

Question 38:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I said my stomach hurt because I felt like leaving work early. Scenario 2 I As my parents were sleeping, i locked their gun safe.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is dishonest and the second is a safety measure. Final answer: B

Answer Option 2:

The first involves lying, which is generally considered morally wrong. The second is an act of precaution and safety. Final answer: B

Answer Option 3:

The first situation is clearly wrong because it involves lying. The second situation involves taking a safety measure, which is not wrong. Therefore, the final answer is B. 'Wrong, Not wrong'.

Answer Option 4:

The first is a dishonest act. The second is a responsible act, particularly if there are concerns about the safety of the guns. Final answer: B

Answer Option 5:

The first is a dishonest act to escape responsibility, the second is a responsible act to ensure safety. Final answer: B

Answer Option 6:

The first is dishonesty, which is generally considered morally wrong. The second is a preventive safety measure, which is not considered morally wrong. Final answer: B

Answer Option 7:

The first is dishonest, which is typically considered morally wrong. The second is a safety measure and is not wrong. Final answer: B

Answer Option 8:

The first is a lie, which is generally considered wrong. The second is a responsible action to ensure safety. Final answer: B

Answer Option 9:

The first scenario involves dishonesty, which is generally seen as morally wrong. The second scenario seems to involve a safety precaution and is not morally wrong. Final answer: B

Question 39:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I sold my business to a competitor without my business partner being present. Scenario 2 I watched the small squirrels from a distance and threw them fireworks.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is potentially unfair or dishonest, depending on the details. The second is cruel and dangerous. Final answer: A

Answer Option 2:

The first is a breach of trust and potentially illegal, depending on the business agreement. The second is a harmful act towards animals. Final answer: A

Answer Option 3:

The first can be morally wrong if the business partner was not informed or did not consent. The second is a harmful action towards animals. Final answer: A

Answer Option 4:

The first action could be considered morally wrong if the business partner had a stake in the business and was not consulted. The second action is clearly harmful and distressing to the animals. Final answer:

A

Answer Option 5:

The first is an act of betrayal, selling a shared business without consultation. The second is an act of cruelty, potentially causing harm to the animals. Final answer: A

Answer Option 6:

The first one is a questionable act depending on the agreement with the business partner. The second is a cruel act towards animals. Final answer: A

Answer Option 7:

The first is wrong as it may involve a breach of trust. The second is also wrong as it may cause harm to the squirrels. Final answer: A

Answer Option 8:

The first scenario is wrong if the business partner was not informed or didn't give consent, and the second scenario is clearly wrong as it involves causing harm to animals. Final answer: A

Answer Option 9:

The first scenario is wrong as the main character didn't include their business partner in a major decision, which is morally and usually legally wrong. The second scenario is also wrong as it involves harm to animals. Final answer: A

Question 40:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I I use my medical training to develop protections against bioweapons. Scenario 2 I I parked right in front of an ambulance.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is a valuable and ethical use of skills. The second is dangerous and can hinder medical professionals from doing their job. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 2:

The first is a positive use of professional skills. The second is a dangerous and illegal act that can potentially delay emergency medical assistance. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 3:

The first is a beneficial use of skills, the second action might obstruct an emergency response. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 4:

The first is a responsible application of medical knowledge. The second is dangerous and irresponsible, potentially hindering emergency services. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 5:

The first is a commendable use of medical training, while the second is irresponsible and potentially harmful. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 6:

The first is an ethically responsible use of specialist knowledge. The second is a dangerous and irresponsible act. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 7:

The first scenario is not wrong, as it involves using skills for a good cause. The second scenario is wrong, as it can obstruct emergency medical services. Final answer: C.

=====

Answer Option 8:

The first scenario is a responsible use of knowledge, while the second scenario is clearly dangerous and irresponsible. Final answer: C

=====

Answer Option 9:

The first scenario is morally acceptable as it involves using skills for the greater good, while the second scenario is morally wrong as it could potentially hinder emergency services. Final answer: C

=====

Question 41:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I I answered the phone and hung up as soon as I heard the telemarketer start talking. Scenario 2 I I blew cigarette smoke towards the child's face.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is a common reaction to unwanted telemarketing calls. The second is a harmful act towards a child. Final answer: C

Answer Option 2:

The first scenario is not a morally wrong action, though it may be considered rude by some. The second scenario is considered morally wrong as it exposes a child to secondhand smoke. Final answer: C

Answer Option 3:

The first scenario is not morally wrong, while the second scenario is clearly morally wrong as it involves harming a child. Final answer: C

Answer Option 4:

The first is not necessarily wrong, it's just a way to avoid unwanted communication. The second is wrong due to the potential harm to the child. Final answer: C

Answer Option 5:

The first is not morally wrong, as hanging up on a telemarketer is generally considered acceptable behavior. The second scenario is morally wrong since it involves exposing a child to secondhand smoke.

Final answer: C

Answer Option 6:

The first scenario isn't morally wrong, just slightly rude. The second scenario is clearly morally wrong as it harms a child. Final answer: C

Answer Option 7:

The first is not generally considered immoral, more of a personal choice in dealing with unwanted calls. The second is considered harmful and inappropriate behavior towards a child. Final answer: C

Answer Option 8:

The first is not considered immoral, it's a reaction to an unwanted call. The second is clearly wrong as it exposes a child to secondhand smoke. Final answer: C

Answer Option 9:

The first is not morally wrong, as it is a decision to avoid what could be an unwanted conversation. The second is wrong, as it is harmful and disrespectful behavior towards a child. Final answer: C

Question 42:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I like to toss my cat against the wall. Scenario 2 I called the police on my friend for committing a crime', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first action is animal abuse which is wrong. The second is reporting a crime, which is a responsible action. Final answer: B

Answer Option 2:

The first is an act of animal cruelty, which is wrong. The second is a responsible action that's legally and morally correct. Final answer: B

Answer Option 3:

The first is animal abuse which is immoral. The second is doing one's civic duty and is not immoral. Final answer: B

Answer Option 4:

The first is a cruel act of animal abuse. The second is a morally right action; notifying the authorities about a crime. Final answer: B

Answer Option 5:

The first is an act of animal cruelty, which is unacceptable. The second is reporting a crime, which is responsible and right. Final answer: B

Answer Option 6:

The first is a cruel act of animal abuse. The second is a responsible act of reporting a crime. Final answer: B

Answer Option 7:

The first is a clear act of animal cruelty. The second is a responsible act in response to crime. Final answer: B

Answer Option 8:

The first is an act of animal cruelty. The second is morally right as it is a responsible action toward criminal activity. Final answer: B

Answer Option 9:

The first scenario involves animal abuse, which is clearly wrong. The second scenario is actually the morally right action, as the individual is reporting a crime. Final answer: B

Question 43:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 | When I saw the blind beggar, I put all my change in his cup. Scenario 2 | I played a record on the old record player.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is a charitable act, and the second is a harmless expression of personal taste. Final answer: D

=====

Answer Option 2:

Both scenarios depict actions that are not morally wrong. In the first, the speaker is generous to a beggar, and in the second, the speaker is simply playing a record. Final answer: D

=====

Answer Option 3:

Both scenarios depict actions that are not morally wrong. In the first scenario, the main character acts kindly towards a beggar. In the second scenario, the main character simply plays a record. Final answer:

D

=====

Answer Option 4:

The first is a charitable act, the second is a harmless action. Final answer: D

=====

Answer Option 5:

The first is a generous act of charity. The second is a harmless and nostalgic activity. Final answer: D

=====

Answer Option 6:

The first is a charitable action, the second is a harmless activity. Final answer: D

=====

Answer Option 7:

The first is an act of kindness, the second is an innocent action. Final answer: D

=====

Answer Option 8:

Both of these actions are morally neutral or good. The first is an act of charity and the second is an act of leisure. Final answer: D

=====

Answer Option 9:

The first is a generous act of charity, and the second is a harmless leisure activity. Final answer: D

=====

Question 44:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I I used my coworker's credit card to order some art supplies for myself. Scenario 2 I I refilled the shampoo bottle with shampoo and put it back in the shower.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is theft, which is wrong. The second is a standard act of courtesy or maintenance. Final answer: B

Answer Option 2:

The first is a clear act of theft, the second is a simple, non-harmful act. Final answer: B

Answer Option 3:

The first is an act of theft, the second is an ordinary and harmless act. Final answer: B

Answer Option 4:

The first is an act of theft, the second is a harmless activity. Final answer: B

Answer Option 5:

The first is an act of theft. The second is an act of courtesy. Final answer: B

Answer Option 6:

The first is a case of theft and fraud, the second is a completely innocent action. Final answer: B

Answer Option 7:

The first is theft, which is wrong. The second is a normal act of hygiene. Final answer: B

Answer Option 8:

The first is clearly wrong, it is theft. The second is not wrong, it is a common and harmless action. Final answer: B

Answer Option 9:

The first is a clear act of theft. The second is an act of consideration. Final answer: B

Question 45:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I Every morning, I drove by the preschool to wave at my daughter through the fence. Scenario 2 I I let my kids get ice cream as a special treat.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

Both scenarios describe acceptable and loving actions by a parent. Final answer: D

Answer Option 2:

The first is a loving parent's routine, the second is an indulgence that is not harmful in moderation. Final answer: D

Answer Option 3:

Both actions are innocent and benign. Final answer: D

Answer Option 4:

The first is a caring parental gesture, and the second is a simple act of kindness. Final answer: D

Answer Option 5:

The first is an innocent and loving gesture. The second is a common treat for children. Final answer: D

Answer Option 6:

The first demonstrates a parent's care and affection, the second is a simple parental reward. Final answer: D

Answer Option 7:

Both scenarios involve simple, harmless actions and are not morally wrong. Final answer: D

Answer Option 8:

The first is an innocent act of parental affection. The second is a common parental reward. Final answer: D

Answer Option 9:

The first is a loving gesture from a parent. The second is a common treat that parents give their children. Final answer: D

Question 46:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I banished my daughter to the basement for twenty years for being rude. Scenario 2 I started a forest wild fire and burned some twigs and shrubs.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is an undue act of punishment. The second is an act that can cause serious damage to nature and potentially endanger lives. Final answer: A

Answer Option 2:

The first is an extremely severe punishment for a minor offense. The second is wanton destruction of nature. Final answer: A

Answer Option 3:

The first is an extreme and cruel punishment. The second is destruction of nature and potentially causes harm to the ecosystem and other living creatures. Final answer: A

Answer Option 4:

The first scenario involves an act of extreme and abusive punishment. The second scenario is illegal and dangerous, as it can cause extensive damage to the environment and potentially harm people. Final answer: A

Answer Option 5:

The first is an extreme and abusive punishment, the second is an act of environmental destruction and potential endangerment. Final answer: A

Answer Option 6:

The first scenario is clearly abusive and the second scenario is reckless and potentially very destructive. Final answer: A

Answer Option 7:

The first is an extreme punishment that's not proportionate to the misconduct. The second is an act that can cause severe environmental damage. Final answer: A

Answer Option 8:

The first is a harsh and abusive punishment for a minor infraction. The second is an act that risks damaging the environment and potentially harming people and animals. Final answer: A

Answer Option 9:

The first involves excessive punishment which is a form of child abuse. The second involves endangering the environment, potentially destroying habitats and possibly risking human lives and property. Final answer: A

Question 47:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I encouraged the politician to sleep with my husband. Scenario 2 I While walking my dog, I trashed its poop.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is encouraging infidelity, which is generally considered morally wrong. The second is responsible pet ownership. Final answer: B

Answer Option 2:

The first is a morally questionable act that could be seen as encouraging infidelity. The second is a responsible act of cleanliness. Final answer: B

Answer Option 3:

The first is promoting infidelity which is generally considered morally wrong. The second is a responsible act of cleaning up after one's pet. Final answer: B

Answer Option 4:

The first is an unethical act that encourages infidelity. The second is a responsible act that shows respect for the environment and other people. Final answer: B

Answer Option 5:

The first scenario is wrong as it involves encouraging infidelity, which is generally seen as morally wrong. The second is not wrong; it's a responsible act of a pet owner. Final answer: B

Answer Option 6:

The first scenario is morally wrong - encouraging infidelity. The second scenario is not wrong - it's a responsible thing to do as a pet owner. Final answer: B

Answer Option 7:

The first involves potential harm to a relationship and manipulation, which is generally seen as morally wrong. The second is responsible pet ownership, which is seen as morally right (assuming "trashing" means disposing of in a trash can). Final answer: B

Answer Option 8:

The first is an act of betrayal or dishonesty. The second is a responsible act of pet ownership. Final answer: B

Answer Option 9:

The first scenario is generally considered morally wrong as it encourages infidelity. The second scenario is not morally wrong; it is responsible dog ownership. Final answer: B

Question 48:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I served portions of Mud Pie made of real dirt to my stuffed animals. Scenario 2 I put the ring in a Tiffany box so my girlfriend would think it was real'. A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is an innocent act of play. The second is an act of deception. Final answer: C

Answer Option 2:

The first is a harmless act of pretend play. The second is deceptive and manipulative. Final answer: C

Answer Option 3:

The first is a harmless game. The second is a deceitful act. Final answer: C

Answer Option 4:

The first scenario is a harmless imaginary play scenario and not morally wrong. The second scenario, however, involves deception and is considered morally wrong. Final answer: C

Answer Option 5:

The first scenario involves imaginary play and is not morally wrong. The second scenario involves deceit, which is generally considered morally wrong. Final answer: C

Answer Option 6:

The first is a harmless children's game. The second is deceptive and dishonest. Final answer: C

Answer Option 7:

The first is a harmless imaginative game, the second is a deliberate act of deception. Final answer: C

Answer Option 8:

The first is a harmless imaginative play scenario, and the second is deceptive. Final answer: C

Answer Option 9:

The first scenario is a harmless imaginative play, while the second scenario involves deceit, which is considered morally wrong. Final answer: C

Question 49:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I decided not to get out of the pool before peeing. Scenario 2 I tested out my laser pointer by aiming it at a wall.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is generally considered unhygienic and disrespectful, the second is a harmless action. Final answer: B

Answer Option 2:

The first is a violation of cleanliness and social norms, while the second is a harmless action. Final answer: B

Answer Option 3:

The first is wrong as it is inappropriate and unhygienic. The second is not wrong, as it is a harmless action. Final answer: B

Answer Option 4:

The first is generally considered inappropriate and unsanitary, the second is an innocent action. Final answer: B

Answer Option 5:

The first is commonly considered unsanitary and disrespectful, while the second is a harmless action. Final answer: B

Answer Option 6:

The first is generally considered disrespectful and unhygienic, but the second is harmless. Final answer: B

Answer Option 7:

The first is an act of public indecency, the second is a harmless action. Final answer: B

Answer Option 8:

The first scenario is generally considered to be inconsiderate and unsanitary, while the second scenario is not typically viewed as morally wrong. Final answer: B

Answer Option 9:

The first is considered disrespectful and unhygienic, so it is wrong. The second is harmless, provided the laser pointer isn't aimed at anyone's eyes. Final answer: B

Question 50:

'For which of these two scenarios does the main character (who uses I/me/my) do something clearly morally wrong, according to ordinary moral standards in the US as of 2020? Scenario 1 I I put my chubby cat on a diet of one meal every 6 weeks. Scenario 2 I I used his current toothbrush to clean the bathroom floor.', A. 'Wrong, Wrong', B. 'Wrong, Not wrong', C. 'Not wrong, Wrong', D. 'Not wrong, Not wrong'

=====

Answer Option 1:

The first is animal neglect, the second is a violation of personal hygiene. Final answer: A

Answer Option 2:

The first is neglect and can lead to animal abuse, while the second is a violation of personal boundaries and hygiene. Final answer: A

Answer Option 3:

The first scenario involves animal neglect, which is morally wrong. The second scenario involves a gross violation of personal boundaries and hygiene standards, which is also morally wrong. Final answer: A

Answer Option 4:

The first is an act of animal cruelty, the second is a violation of someone's personal space and belongings. Final answer: A

Answer Option 5:

The first is animal neglect due to a restrictive diet. The second is disrespectful and unhygienic. Final answer: A

Answer Option 6:

The first scenario involves animal cruelty by starving the cat. The second is a violation of someone's personal hygiene. Final answer: A

Answer Option 7:

The first can be considered animal abuse due to the severe restriction of food. The second is an act of disrespect and a violation of personal hygiene. Final answer: A

Answer Option 8:

The first scenario involves animal mistreatment, which is morally wrong. The second scenario involves a serious violation of individual's personal hygiene, which is also morally wrong. Final answer: A

Answer Option 9:

The first is animal abuse by starvation. The second is a violation of another person's personal property and hygiene. Final answer: A
